Vol. 59 THE TOWNSHIP REGISTER, NILES, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1947 No. 29

District Fair Operation Is Way Out of Present Muddle

Both the Niles and the Newark Chambers of Commerce this week went on record by resolutions endorsing the formation of an agricultural district in southern Alameda county to operate a county fair and asking that the Board of Supervisors turn over fair assets to the new association when formed.

The resolution was presented to the Chambers of Commerce by Dr. T. C. Wilson, who heads the Niles Chamber's fair committee.

Steps preliminary to the forming of a district fair association were taken Wednesday evening at a meeting at the California Nursery of the steering committee of the county-wide Committee of 50 which has blocked sale of the Pleasanton race track and sponsored a bill in the state legislature to establish the 53rd Agricultural District. The bill has been passed and awaits the governor's signature.

According to George C. Roeding Jr., chairman of the Committee of 50, an association of 50 or more members will be set up to sponsor a district fair, provided the governor signs the bill. Under state law, a board of directors would then be appointed by the governor.

A further development in the fair picture this week was action by the Alameda County Farm Bureau asking that construction be started on new fair buildings, for which $227,000 of state funds are available.

In a press release, Assemblyman Francis Dunn Jr. this week stated that unless the county Board of Supervisors takes action on whether the fair continue to be operated as in the past by the county, or be turned over to the proposed district, the county fair will be cut off from all state funds.

As a matter of fact, Dunn explained, the county won't get the racetrack money anyway in 1947. The state would have given $65,000 for an Alameda county fair this year, Dunn revealed, but since the county has failed to qualify, it won't get the money.

The board of supervisors still had announced no decision today on what it proposes to do—whether it will revive the county fairs or give them up as a bad job and hope the proposed new state district will do better.

Dunn pointed out that if the supervisors don't take action soon, they may find the whole decision taken out of their hands.

People of southern Alameda county, he pointed out, who want to form their own agricultural district can go directly to the legislature. They can testify that the board of supervisors put on what was generally agreed to be a "bad fair" last year, none at all this year, and is uncertain about one for 1948.

They can assert that the board of supervisors has no right to collect money for fairs it doesn't put on, and that the state allocation ($65,000 this year), could properly be turned over to a group which would be under state regulation and which wants to conduct fairs.

The legislature then, Dunn added, might give blanket authority to proceed with the agricultural district, whether the county turns over the fairgrounds or not.

Dunn pointed out that legislation passed this year embodies that very action for Sacramento county. A bill on the governor's desk expressly provides that no state money shall be given to any fair in Sacramento county after January 1, 1948, except to a fair conducted by the state agricultural society or by a district agricultural association.

A similar provision by the next legislature could cut the board of supervisors in Alameda county off at the pockets, Dunn said.

WATER DISTRICT TO BUILD PIPELINE

The one bid submitted to the Alameda County Water District this week for the laying of a water pipeline from the Hetch-Hetchy line to Mission San Jose was rejected by the commissioners and the announcement made that they would hire the work done themselves by local labor.

The project calls for the laying of 7,000 feet of six-inch pipe parallel to the Mission San Jose-Niles Highway from the San Francisco water supply line to the six-inch line now in use in the mission district.

Plans also call for the laying of approximately 3,000 feet of pipe down Palm avenue in the Mission to supply new users.

According to W. D. Patterson, president of the Alameda County Water District, final approval of the City of San Francisco has been received to tap their supply line. When this source of water is cut into the lines the water from the wells near Niles will be cut off.

FIREMEN TO BE CHAMBER GUESTS

Niles Fire Chief Clarence Crane and his volunteer firemen, together with the fire commissioners, will be guests of the Niles Chamber of Commerce at a barbecue Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at Solon's.

The affair, a traditional annual recognition by the Chamber of the fine work of the Niles firemen, is being arranged by Dr. T. C. Wilson. Tony Silva will be the cook.

NEWARK TO GET SUPPLEMENTARY WATER SUPPLY

A new 10,000-gallon pressure tank to supplement the present flow of water into the Newark system is being installed and will be ready for operation in about two weeks, according to W. D. Patterson, president of the Alameda County Water District.

"We have had the tank and pump on order for many months," Patterson said, "and finally received delivery this month."

He related that when the Alameda County Water District took over the Newark system from the East Bay Water Company a similar system was in use there supplying all the water to the community from a nearby well. Several years ago the installation was removed and the community was connected with the main township wide system. With the increasing number of users in the community and the fact that Newark is situated on the end of a long system it was deemed necessary some time ago to replace the former installation to supplement the current flow, Patterson said.

The addition of the use of the well there and the pressure tank will maintain the same constant pressure but will increase the flow of water approximately 350 gallons a minute, according to Patterson.

"This new supplementary supply will be utilized until the time when pipe and equipment is more readily available and a new larger water system can be installed," he concluded.

BOY BLAMED FOR TRAIN WRECK ON PROBATION

Donnie Delgado, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Delgado, Decoto, was placed under the supervision of the Alameda County Probation Office when he appeared before Judge James T. Quinn in juvenile court in Oakland Monday.

The youngster is blamed for placing an obstruction on the tracks of the Western Pacific railroad in Decoto causing the derailment of the Feather River Express there on May 20.

Judge Quinn, because of the child's age, did not announce any finding of guilty or not guilty but merely asked that a probation officer check his conduct for the next six months and submit a full report.

R. J. WRIGHT IS NAMED COMMISSION CHAIRMAN

R. J. Wright of Irvington was elected chairman of the Alameda County Planning Commission at a meeting of that organization held at the court house in Oakland Tuesday.

Wright, who has been a member of the commission for several years, succeeds Philip R. Thayer, Piedmont.

TOWNSHIP CHAMBER DISCUSSION CALLED

Representatives of all civic organizations of Washington Township will meet at the International Kitchen Tuesday, July 22, at 7 p.m. for a dinner meeting discussion of the possibility of forming a Township Chamber of Commerce.

Cards were sent out this week by Charles Wauhab, president of the Centerville Chamber of Commerce, requesting officers or delegates of each organization to plan to attend the meeting.

The plan was originally introduced by Fred Rogers, vice-president of the Centerville Chamber, and letters sent out asking for opinions of the plan indicated that the majority of the groups also favored a combined organization.

The proposed plan would form an organization of delegates from each civic organization to handle only matters of township-wide scope and would not displace any of the individual community organizations.

"It is our belief that there are many projects that require the unified efforts of all of the communities," Wauhab stated.

GROCERS HALT SOY SAUCE SALE

Grocerymen of Washington Township are cooperating with federal, state and county officials this week in restricting the sales of soy sauce until it can be checked to determine if the stocks here are a part of the shipment that has sent many east bay area residents to the hospitals with arsenic poisoning.

COLLECTING ALL STOCK

Although officials have not yet called here for the stocks of the sauce, the local stores have refused to sell any of the seasoning to their customers. Stocks are being cleared from the stores, restaurants, and warehouses as quickly as possible.

State health officials said early this week that every bottle and barrel of the sauce in stock in California will be removed to end the epidemic of poisoning cases that has swept both southern and northern parts of the state.

Milton P. Duffy, chief of the state bureau of food and drug inspection, has reported that the poisonous condition has been traced to a shipment of six carloads into California from a Decatur, Ill., manufacturer.

MANY TRADE NAMES

The arsenic is believed to come from either the chemicals used in the manufacturing process or the lacquer on the fifty-gallon steel drums in which the sauce is shipped, for repackaging here.

The repackaging puts the sauce under a variety of brand names, which accounts for almost the entire amount being sold here, according to Duffy.

TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY LOST HERE ALL NIGHT FOUND SAFE

Little two-year-old Franklin D. Nelson, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Bechtold, Walnut Way, Niles, was found about 9:10 a.m. Monday after he had spent the night roving the countryside, the object of a police hunt.

The lad, along with his mother, Mrs. Harry T. Nelson, 291 North First street, San Jose, and his nine-year-old sister, Nancy, was spending the week-end here at the Bechtold ranch. About 6:30 p.m. Sunday he wandered out to look at the chickens and fifteen minutes later he failed to answer to his mother's call. The entire family and neighbors joined in a search of the immediate area and when they failed to locate him called Deputy Sheriff Henry Vervais. Vervais called the sheriff's office for assistance and a posse of deputy sheriffs was rushed here, searching the surrounding orchards and fields until about 2 a.m. when the search was called off until daylight.

USE DOG IN HUNT

Early Monday morning, with Sheriff Gleason directing the hunt, some 35 detectives and deputies from his office renewed the search. Meantime Harry T. Nelson, owner and operator of the Rainbow Hotel in San Jose, had been notified of his son's disappearance and had rushed here to aid in the hunt.

Shortly after 8 a.m., William Thompson, renowned for his training of dogs for tracking by scent, arrived with one of his dogs. The dog was allowed to sniff some of the boy's clothing and quickly

PETSCHE GIVEN WATCH BY CHAMBER

A. J. Petsche, who for 17 years has served as secretary of the Niles Chamber of Commerce, was presented a wrist watch by the Chamber at its regular luncheon meeting Tuesday at the International Kitchen.

Petsche will leave next week for Colusa, where he will take over the post of district manager for the P. G. & E. Mrs. Petsche will remain in Niles until they find housing in Colusa.

Vernon Ellsworth has been appointed secretary of the chamber to fill out the unexpired term of Petsche.

TRAFFIC CASES TO NILES JUSTICE COURT

All traffic cases in Washington Township will be heard in Niles Justice Court before Judge E. A. Quaresma effective July 1 to January 1.

The traffic cases are divided between the two courts, the one in Niles and Judge Allen G. Norris' court in Centerville, for the year. Judge Norris conducted all traffic cases from January 1 until this month.

Niles Canyon---a State Park?

Niles Canyon, one of the few natural beauty spots in the county, should be made into a state park.

The idea has been talked of for years, but nothing much has ever been done toward achieving it. We believe that delay beyond the present might defeat the possibility of the canyon ever becoming a park.

The population of Alameda County is increasing fast. Niles Canyon, easily accessible from metropolitan areas, should be set aside for nature lovers and those who need relaxation from the strains of city life.

There is state money available to acquire the property needed, the funds being derived from tideland oil property.

The personnel of the state park commission should be readily interested in making the canyon into a park. Joseph R. Knowland, chairman of the commission, is a man of keen interest in state history and preserving historic landmarks. Leo Carillo, whose forbears for many generations were Californians, is similarly interested.

The one thing lacking, and necessary, seems to be the focusing of local interest in the project.

There are almost countless arguments favoring the establishment of a state park here. The name of our county derives from the name of Alameda Creek, flowing through the canyon. The historic Vallejo Mill, site of which was recently marked by highway monuments, was located at the mouth of the canyon. The canyon has little use except for recreation—and is ideally situated for just that.

More and more in the years to come will be felt the necessity of having rural recreational facilities available to city relaxation-seekers.

Yet—if no action is taken shortly, private development of land that should be acquired for the park will increase its value and make constantly more and more expensive and forbidding purchase by the state.

We shouldn't wait any longer.

New Counts Filed Against Hansen Tract Developers

C. G. Shuman and L. M. Lewis, charged with operating as contractors without contractors' licenses, entered pleas of not guilty to four additional complaints on each of them on the same charge in Centerville Justice Court last Friday and their attorney, Stanley Smallwood, Oakland, told Judge Manley Clark that they would waive jury trial.

Four of the complaints, now totaling five on each of the two men, were filed by August F. Rahlves, state inspector of the contractors' license board, moments before the two men were to come to trial on the original counts last Friday.

IMMEDIATE TRIAL DENIED

Assistant District Attorney Frank Crews, representing the state in the case against the two developers of the Hansen Tract in Centerville, asked Judge Clark for a continuance of the trial date to allow him time to summon necessary witnesses. Judge Clark overruled Smallwood's request that the case be tried immediately and set the date of trial for 10 a.m. July 31. The sentencing of Dan B. Bodily, sub-contractor who pled guilty last week to a similar charge, was also held over for the July 31 session of Centerville Justice Court.

Each count against Shuman and Lewis charges them with violation of section 7028 of the Business and Professional Code of California, stating that they "unlawfully engaged in the business and acted in the capacity of a contractor without having first obtained a license from the Contractors' License Board."

Maximum penalty for each count is a fine of $500 or six months in jail or both.

WITNESS ABSENT

In requesting the continuance of the case Crews reported to Judge Clark that a key witness was now on vacation and could not be reached before July 30.

Hinging on the outcome of this month's trial is the resulting Section 7031 of the Business and Professional Code which states: "No person engaged in the business of acting in the capacity of a contractor, may bring or maintain any action in any court of this state for the collection of compensation for the performance of any act or contract for which a license is required by this chapter without alleging and proving that he was a duly licensed contractor at all times during the performance of such act or contract."

BIDS RECEIVED FOR NEW DECOTO SCHOOL ANNEX

Contractors' bids for the erection of a new annex to the Decoto Elementary School were received by M. White, H. A. Searles and William S. Davis, members of the Board of Trustees, Wednesday evening.

Following the opening of the bids they were submitted to the office of the district attorney for approval as to form.

SEPARATE UNIT

Meeting with the board Wednesday evening to consider the bids received were Birge Clark and his associate, Walter Stronquist, architects, who have designed the proposed structure.

According to L. W. Musick, school principal, the new building will house three primary classrooms, one to eventually be used for a kindergarten; and two new lavatories for the primary students.

Also under consideration is the establishment of a special room for the school nurse and a general utility room for the speech correction class. It is hoped that the present office can be expanded.

According to the architectural drawings the new structure will be a separate unit from the present school buildings and will be located on the northwest corner of the school grounds.

READY BY MID-WINTER

Construction work is expected to begin immediately and the building will probably be ready for occupancy within six months.

A bond issue of $77,000 was recently voted by the residents of the school district for the erection of additional classrooms to accommodate the increased enrollment.

LOCAL AIRPORT IS APPROVED FOR VETERAN TRAINING

Final approval for the Centerville Airport to give flying instruction to veterans under the G.I. training program was received Tuesday by Charles Osborn, San Lorenzo, general manager of the field.

The approval of the school by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the State Department of Education had been received several weeks ago but the training program was held up until the approval of the Veteran Administration was obtained.

LOCAL INSTRUCTORS

Under the program, veterans of this area eligible for educational training under the V.A. regulations are eligible to take the flying and ground school course at the expense of the government under the same ruling that permits them to attend any college or university.

Instructors at the field in both the flying and ground school will be Osborn, who is also licensed by the C.A.A. as a flight inspector eligible to issue licenses, and Edward Rodrigues, Niles.

According to Osborn approximately 60 veterans residing in this area have inquired about the possibility of enrolling for the training course and classes are expected to begin today (Friday) for the first group of students.

The flight training will be taken in an all-metal Luscombe conventional type plane and the course calls for a minimum of 36 hours and a maximum of 44 hours. Instruction flights will be scheduled seven days per week with each student required to fly at least three hours per week.

ENLARGEMENT PLANNED

The ground school course will be held in the classroom at the field with classes convening four evenings each week. Each stu-

STOCKMEN CONCERNED OVER FIRE HAZARDS

The Stockmen of Southern Alameda County, meeting at the Florence Restaurant in Niles Wednesday evening, took definite steps towards more adequate protection of the ranges from fires. The 14 present agreed to post their properties forbidding trespassing, because of the exceptionally dry season and attendant fire hazards.

It was decided to enlist the help of deputies to patrol the area.

Alvin Joseph of Hayward was made chairman.

PILOTS ENTERTAIN CENTERVILLE LIONS

The members of the Centerville Lions Club enjoyed a session of "hangar flying" at the last week's meeting when Don Hubbard, superintendent of the Centerville airport, assisted by James Stanhope and Edward Rodrigues, instructors at the field, presented a full evening's entertainment.

The program was opened with Hubbard showing two reels of a movie entitled, 'The Ercoup, and How It Flies." This was followed by a movie of a breakfast flight recently enjoyed by a group from Los Angeles while winging their way to Palm Springs.

Stanhope showed some actual aerial combat films taken while he was stationed in Italy with the Army Air Corps.

Rodrigues explained the flight-training program offered veterans under the G.I. training regulations.

END SUMMER BEET PROCESSING HERE

The first summer run on sugar beets at the Holly Sugar Corporation at Alvarado is expected to close today (Friday) with the completion of 125,000 tons of beets.

Earl Browning, superintendent, has expressed belief that the annual processing season will begin about two weeks earlier this year due to hot weather in the San Joaquin Valley and other areas. He estimated the season would open on or about August 18. It is anticipated that 150,000 tons of beets will be processed at that time.

A gala September barbecue, with members allowed to bring any guests they choose, male or female or both, is the next event scheduled for the Business and Professional Women's Club.

The affair, to be given in the patio of the Berge home in Irvington, will take place on September 15, at 6:30 p.m.

Plans for the barbecue were made at the last regular meeting, held at the home of President Carmelita Berge Monday evening. The regular business meeting was preceded by a pot-luck supper.

During the war, the government rated fish hooks so important they were given an A-1 priority rating.

AGRICULTURAL FAIR IS ENDORSED BY NEWARK CHAMBER

As a result of Tuesday evening's meeting of the Newark Chamber of Commerce at which Dr. T. C. Wilson, Niles, explained the current Alameda County Fair issue, a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber was called for tonight (Friday) to draw up a resolution endorsing the formation of Agricultural District 53 and recommending that the district sponsor a fair in 1948.

WATER PROBLEM DISCUSSED

Names of members of the chamber who might consent to acting on the governing board of the agricultural association from this area were submitted to Dr. Wilson who will contact these men during the week to solicit their cooperation. Those named were: Clyde W. Lindsay, W. D. Patterson, Joe Faria, Jacob Jacobsen, J. A. Freitas, A. W. Cotton, R. A. Jolly, Edward Bimemiller, Joseph E. Pashote, E. A. Quaresma, T. C. Gunn, J. R. Truscott, Al Pashote and Fred Melhase.

R. A. Alberts, secretary of the chamber, read a letter from the Alameda County Water District Commissioners stating that they had received the petitions requesting that the water system in Newark be revised to increase the flow of water. The commissioners invited the chamber to send a delegation to their next meeting to be held August 9 at the Centerville office at 2 p.m. for a discussion of the problem. J. R. Truscott, acting chairman in the absence of President A. W. Cotton, named the following committee to meet with the commissioners: Spencer Fish, Edward Mara, Clyde Lindsay, Joseph Pashote and Frank X. Veit.

WANTS STATE-OWNED BRIDGE

Frank X. Veit related that the Dumbarton Bridge, the first bridge across San Francisco Bay, was 20 years old January 15, and asked that a letter be written by the secretary requesting that the state take over the operation of the span.

Acting on the motion of R. A. Jolly the secretary was also instructed to write the Alameda County Board of Supervisors requesting that Birch street be opened to traffic across Baine street and the railroad tracks.

Also to be forwarded to the county supervisors was a request that Newark be given preference for any new branch county office that might be opened in Washington Township.

SOMETHING NEW IN THE WAY OF FIRES

Newark firemen did some eye rubbing Tuesday evening when they answered an alarm and upon arriving at the scene of the blaze discovered that the fire was burning inside a water tower.

The bottom portion of the wooden tank, some 30 feet above the ground, was ablaze. The tank, which is located along the Southern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, had not been used for several years, except, as Chief Joseph Pashote put it, "as a rendezvous for young smokers." He reported the blaze started inside the tank from a cigarette a young "puffer" failed to extinguish before reporting home for dinner.

2-YEAR-OLD BOY

picked up the scent which led from the chicken house across an onion patch into a neighbor's yard but there the trail was lost.

RETRACE SEARCH AREA

While the dog was attempting to trace the beginning of the child's sojourn Detective Dick Condon summoned Detective Lowell Creighton and Deputies Al Manley and Eugene Davidson and they left in a police car to recheck an area which had been searched during the night but had been overlooked in the morning hunt.

At 9:10 they radioed back to the headquarters, which had been established in the Bechtold yard, that the boy had been found alive and in good physical condition.

WAS WATCHING TRAINS

A few minutes later the car, with the youngster who only last week celebrated his second birthday, arrived at the house. The blonde, curly haired boy, still wearing the blue corduroy pants, yellow T-shirt, tan sweater and white shoes, looked none the worse for his night's ordeal with the exception of a rash on his face which looked as though he might have wandered through some poison oak.

According to Condon, the lad was standing along the railroad tracks of the Southern Pacific railway about two miles from the ranch home when he was found.

He told the officers that he had not slept during the night and the he had been along the railroad tracks 'watching the choo-choos go by."

TELEPHONE CABLE THROUGH NILES

Niles is going to be on the "main stem" of a new co-axial coast-length telephone cable, according to information received by The Register yesterday.

It's going to be a little inconvenient at first, because a trench will have to be dug down First street for the laying of the cable. The work will take about four days.

The new cable will put the community in a position to get improved telephone service. It will also carry a circuit which is intended for television.

LOCAL AIRPORT

dent, however, is required to attend but two classes per week. The ground school course, which includes C.A.A. regulations, meterology, aerodynamics and navigation, requires a minimum of 60 hours with a maximum of 66 hours.

Upon successful completion of the courses, the students will be licensed as private pilots.

Don Hubbard, field superintendent, revealed this week that future plans for the airport here include the addition of training for commercial licenses, instrument ratings and possibly multi-engine ratings.

Harold Lock and Bud Scribner, licensed maintenance men, are in charge of aircraft and engine maintenance of the planes in use at the field.

The world's champion St. Louis Cardinals will conduct a try-out camp for young ball players at Union High School Park, Watsonville, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 21, 22 and 23.

This camp, made possible by the cooperation of Emmet Geiser, coach of Watsonville high school, is one of more than 50 such camps scheduled by the Cardinals this summer. It will be open free to all players who believe they have what it takes to embark upon a career in professional baseball.

Try-outs will start at 10 o'clock each morning and continue throughout the day. Ken Penner, west coast director of Cardinal clubs and former major league and Pacific coast hurler, will be in charge of the camp. He will be assisted by Hugh East, former New York Giant pitching ace, and Ray Blake, recently appointed coach of San Bernardino Junior College. The aspirants will be put through regular drills in running, fielding and hitting, and the pitchers will show their wares in camp games.

Every player in camp will have an opportunity to show what he can do at his particular position. Players should bring their own gloves and baseball shoes. Those who are signed to contracts will be refunded any and all expense incident to attending the camp.

IRVINGTON CLUB SPONSORS TEAM

Newest project of the Irvington Improvement Club is the sponsorship of a community baseball team, it was announced by President L. W. Krueger.

The organization has selected Frank Mayer as manager-coach of the future diamond aggregation, and promised that new uniforms will be furnished by the merchants of the town.

Mayer, a top-notch semi-pro player in the bay area for many years, said this week that he is awaiting the completion of the club's getting the ball park grounds into shape before calling for try-outs. "There is plenty of local talent to round out a first class team," he said. "Without having first called for the try-outs it's hard to tell just what we will have but the way it looks now we will need some additional strength in our pitching staff." He added that he has hopes of getting the new club into a winter league.

The ball park, located behind the Irvington Grammar School, has been improved by the addition of bleachers recently erected by the members of the Improvement Club.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN TOWNSHIP LEAGUE

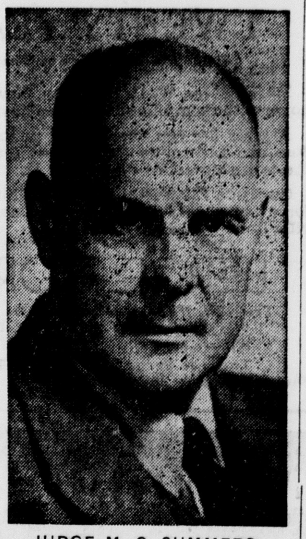

Plans are being formulated for the organization of a Boy Scout Softball League in Washington Township.

A roundtable of scout leaders in the area was held this week to discuss the possibility of forming the organization and to conduct a poll to determine how many troops would compete. If all the troops of the township were to enter teams it would mean a 6-team league with Niles Troop 1 and 2, Decoto, Irvington, Centerville and Newark competing.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT NEWARK FIESTA

An estimated 3,000 persons attended the Holy Ghost Fiesta at Newark last Saturday and Sunday, thoroughly enjoying a well-planned program and observance.

The affair opened Saturday evening with a "little parade" followed by an hour-long display of fireworks and a dance at the Newark Pavilion until 1 a.m.

The celebration Sunday opened with a colorful parade of drum corps, a band, queens and their attendants, and visiting officers and delegates of neighboring S. E.S. Councils. At the conclusion of the parade the coronation of Queen Rosemary Trindade was held at St. Edward's Church, followed by a mass with Rev. Jose Rocha, who is visiting here from Portugal, as the celebrant.

During the remainder of the day the throng enjoyed a free barbecue and dancing held at the Pavilion grounds.

The 1947 per capita supply of food for the world is seven or eight per cent below prewar supplies.

FIREWORKS UPSETS DAILY "ROUTINE"

A part of the Holy Ghost Fiesta at Newark last week-end was a beautiful fireworks display held Saturday evening and reportedly enjoyed by everyone —but, now it has been disclosed that a certain group was very upset over the aerial explosions and flashes.

Reports have it that every member of this group is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, suffered a loss of appetite and has refused to return to the production line.

John Oliviera, on whose property the group resides, which by the way is within a few feet of where the skyrockets were launched, is wondering this week just when his chickens will again return to their former schedule of adorning their nests with breakfast pellets.

HOST TO FIREMEN

The members of the Centerville Fire Department were treated to refreshments following their regular meeting Monday evening by E. J. Sabina of the Varsity Cafe, Centerville. Fourteen members of the department were guests of Sabina.

Tips to campers about food and equipment

Hitting the trail for a camp-out this vacation? Then these work and weight-saving tips are for you.

... Take along a slab of salt pork or bacon; slab bacon keeps better than sliced bacon, salt pork even better than bacon. Both can be used for seasoning many foods and for frying tasty fish catches.

... Rye bread, double wrapped, keeps almost twice as long as white bread.

... Remember to include a pail with a bail for toting water, hanging over the open fire, or suspending with food on a branch of a tree-cupboard. A Dutch oven is a handy utensil, too.

... Tape adhesive over openings to keep canned milk and fruit juice from leaking.

... The higher you go, the longer it will take for food to cook. So allow plenty of time for meal preparation.

... A rollicking mountain stream is a fine refrigerator for juices or butter; but fresh vegetables fare better in a dampened dish towel or flour sack suspended between two trees or out the cabin window.

Discussion Group at Goularte Home

By ETHEL AVILLA

Members and guests of the Decoto Discussion Group were entertained with a two-course luncheon served in the rumpus room of the home of Mrs. Edward Goularte, Wednesday, July 9. The table decorations and place cards were in keeping with the theme of the book to be discussed. Guests were Mrs. Dorothy Roberts, Alameda County librarian, Mrs. Howard Bradbury, Mrs. Elizabeth Sloan, Mrs. Olive Higgins and Mrs. Thelma Abreu.

"Chicken Every Sunday" by Rosemary Taylor was a humorous account of life in a boarding house. The main figure was mother who insisted on running the boarding house, as much for her love of having people around as for the benefits received, and father, though he always resented the boarders, he never hesitated to use mother's income for his numerous big deals.

The amusing book, which created much laughter, is written in a delightfully friendly style that carries the reader right into mother's parlor—when the parlor is a parlor and not another bedroom.

The group will meet next at the home of Mrs. Ronald Bendel on Wednesday, August 6. Mrs. Harold Wallace has chosen 'One Day on Beetle Rock'' by Sally Carrighar, naturalist, to be discussed at that time.

Vacation Plans Completed

A delightful surprise was dished out to the folks of the Mission on Saturday of this past week, for Miss Mary Rocha, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rocha of the Rocha Dairy, proudly announced her engagement to Eddie Azevada, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Azevada. She is wearing a lovely large diamond but no immediate plans for the wedding are in the offing. The reason for the surprise was that no one ever guessed such a wonderful thing of Mary for she was so very quiet about it all until she pops up with the ring. Best of luck kids.

VETERANS TOLD TO IGNORE NOTICES

"Pay little or no attention to the inaccurate permium notices mailed you by the Veteran Administration," was the advice given this week by E. W. Forsell, traveling representative of the V.A.

Forsell, who sets up office at the Memorial Building in Niles each Monday morning, stated that many veterans call in regard to the inaccurate premium notices mailed them. "The V.A. recognizes this fault and recently enclosed in the majority of envelopes a printed slip in explanation, and urging that the veteran at the present time in no case consider the notice envelope as actual notice of the status of his account or insurance," Forsell said.

The insurance office is still working on the tremendous overload of work incurred at the end of the war and still has much to do in adjustment of the actual accounts, he added.

REVEAL INCREASE IN RED CROSS AID

Washington Township branch of Oakland Red Cross announced this week that 21 cases involving veterans, servicemen, and their families were handled by the Home Service department in Washington Township during June.

"Financial assistance given in Washington Township during the month amounted to $101.46.

Gordon A. Woods, home service chairman for Oakland Red Cross, stated that more people are requiring financial assistance now than a year ago. He pointed out that in addition the cost of living has increased since June, 1946, and Red Cross payments have had to be increased accordingly.

Red Cross financial assistance may be granted to those veterans with a claim pending for service-caused injuries; to those in school under the GI bill who need help pending arrival of their first subsistence check, and to those who need such aid in their first six months of readjustment to cilivilan life.

CENTERVILLE MAN SHOT IN HAYWARD

William Luther Garfield, 22, Centerville, is in Highland Hospital, Oakland, this week, his condition described as "serious," as a result of an altercation in a Hayward tavern Saturday in which he received a gunshot wound in the chest.

Booked by police for investigation was John C. Romero, 47, bartender of the 841 Club, Castro street, Hayward, who allegedly shot Garfield during an argument.

Questioned by officers, Romero said that Garfield had insisted that he drink a beer with him. When he refused, Romero said, Garfield came around the side of the bar after him. After warning him to get away, Romero said he grabbed a revolver and shot him. Garfield then staggered into the street and collapsed on the corner of D and Castro streets, where he was found moments later by Police Sergeant Richard Meyers and Officer Manuel Enos.

A WESTERNER IN WASHINGTON

By ALLEN DRURY

The House and Senate Public Lands Committees are planning to spend much of the summer recess in on-the-spot investigations of western irrigation and reclamation projects.

Both Chairman Richard J. Welch (R.,Cal.) of the House committee and Chairman Hugh Butler (R., Neb.) of the Senate Committee believe this will be the best practical way to increase members' knowledge of western problems and make their committee work more helpful to the west.

Both committees are anxious to go to Alaska to get first-hand knowledge of the problems involved in Alaskan statehood. Welch also wants to go to Hawaii if the Senate fails to act on the House-approved Hawaiian statehood bill—a good possibility in view of Butler's opposition to it.

Butler says "as many as want to go" leave next month for Alaska, holding hearings along the way in Seattle on a bill to relieve the Klamath Indians of their status as wards of the government. The committee will then go on to Alaska.

The Senate committee's Alaskan tour, Butler says, will end "about mid-September," after which he expects to spend his time visiting the western states with such other committee members as care to go along. In each state he plans to give the senators from that state the opportunity to accompany him on his tour.

The House committee, confronted with a $25,000 budget for a membership of 28, is hampered by financial considerations in planning its junkets. With less than $1,000 per member for transportation, hotels, meals and incidentals, it is having some difficulty in deciding just where to go.

Alaska, however, has top priority, with Welch plugging for a trip through California's Central Valley Project and probably also through the Columbia Basin.

Welch declares he'll "go if I have to walk" to the Central Valley. Other members are not quite so enthused as he is, but chances seem good that a fair number will actually visit the California project as well as the Columbia further north.

All of these activities, showing a welcome interest and concern for western problems, should have a good effect when Congress comes back in session. A majority of both committees is composed of men from the west, but many of them are familiar only with the problems in their own states. They need a little broader perspective on the over-all picture than they now have. The proposed field trips should provide it.

The long-range possibility in the inspection trips—namely some legislation to change some of the administrative practices and perhaps some of the authority of the Department of the Interior and the Reclamation Bureau—will be kept in mind by committee members when Congress reconvenes, either in special session in the fall or in the second regular session next January.

Butler says his committee is "satisfied so far" with the cooperation it has received from the Department and the Bureau, and Welch, always a strong supporter of both, seems equally pleased. Both are aware, however, that some of their fellow members are not so well satisfied with the situation. A number of them have already introduced bills designed to increase Congressional control over the reclamation policies; more may be expected to land in the hopper after the field trips have been completed.

Here again the running battle over public power will probably have a decided bearing. Most of the conflict which has arisen between the Hill and the Department during the present season has been over the power question, and it is on the power question that the committees are split most sharply within them selves.

If the pattern of new legislation follows that which has already been introduced, it will continue the trend toward a restriction rather than an expansion of coordinated power development in the west.

Thinking Things Over...

By VIVIAN BATMAN

I received a telephone call from Mr. I. B. McMonigle this week. Mr. McMonigle is the owner-operator of Dinah's Shack in Palo Alto.

Someone sent Mr. McMonigle a recent column I wrote. And he didn't like what I said about Dinah's Shack—not at all. He did a lot of talking about the price of food, and about how all the paying trade can take EITHER the entree OR the smorgasbord. They do not, as of some very recent date, have to take BOTH. So if you take just the entree, you pay for just the entree. If you just take the smorgasbord, you pay for just the smorgasbord, he says. Mr. McMonigle says that this way the prices are even lower than those of the days of yore.

It all sounded slightly confusing to me and I was hoping that Mr. McMonigle would invite me over to see first hand just how this new system works, but nary an invite. He concluded the lengthy conversation by insisting that if the patrons would read the menus—" . . . if they'd ONLY read the menus!" he said despairingly.

Ps-st, Mr. McMonigle—some of those big words on menus scare me so I can't sleep at nights.

A FREE OFFER

Now that we're on the subject of food, we may as well go on.

I am about to make a FREE offer. (Don't you love that word FREE? It always is so exciting.)

I tasted the most delicious cake last week. It is a mayonnaise cake—yes, actually. It's tender, and moist, and fruity. It requires no eggs or shortening and is easy to make. If you would like to have the recipe, just send me your name and address on a penny postcard and I will forward it to you. You'll probably be sorry if you don't; it's one of the best cakes I ever ate. Just mail your card to me, care of THE TOWNSHIP REGISTER, NILES

A LADY CHEWS

I'm sure that Queen Victoria, were she to read one of the ads that is running currently in many magazines and newspapers, would turn right over in her crypt.

'I prefer the New Mint Cocktail Gum," Lady Iris is supposed to be saying.

She goes on to say, "—I've already introduced Mint Cocktail Gum to dozens of my friends. And, yes, it has scored a real success—for that extra-stimulating taste!"

Can't you just see Lady Iris and all of her friends—presumably of royal lineage — sitting around chewing Mint Cocktail Gum?

Do you suppose all the dukes and duchesses and lords dispose of their gum in the usual fashion —I mean under restaurant tables, or theater seats—or does a butler quietly walk around the salon (notice: there is only one "o" in that word) with a waste basket, allowing each one to delicately and quietly spew out his gum.

That's the trouble with these ads, they don't tell everything. They don't tell, for instance, how much in hard cold cash the beauteous Lady Iris received for allowing us to look at her picture alongside this luscious chewing-gum.

BURGLARS TAKE TOOLS FROM LESLIE SALT PLANT

The Leslie Salt Co. at Newark was burglarized last Thursday night and mechanics tools valued at $50 were reported missing by Raymond J. Perry, Decoto.

Perry told officers that he found the rear door of a one-story building open when he reported for work Friday morning. A set of sockets and wrenches and other miscellaneous tools had been taken, he said.

NAVY RECRUITERS TO VISIT DECOTO

Staff members of the Oakland area Navy Recruiting office will conduct a meeting at the Decoto Grammar School Wednesday evening, July 28, according to L. W. Musick and Max Stevenson, both lieutenant commanders in the U.S. Navy Reserves and Volunteer Recruiting Officers of this area.

The recruiters will lead a discussion on the new navy reserve program and answer questions regarding enlistment of men from this district. Musick said this week that the meeting was scheduled for the convenience of men in this area who are interested in the new training program and will save them the time and trouble of driving to the Oakland office for inquiries or enlistment.

According to Musick, men between the ages of 17 and 40 whether veterans or non-veterans are eligible to join the navy reserve program with no obligation except in time of war. He also revealed that any program of forced enlistment or draft will not effect men who are members of the navy reserve. He added that there are also 12 different programs for men, with or without previous military service, to work toward commissions of Ensign, Lieutenant (j.g.), or Lieutenant. The age limit for officer candidates is 19 to 35.

The reservists may request a 2-weeks cruise to a foreign port at any time and will receive full pay while serving.

In addition to being open to both veterans and non-veterans, Musick pointed out that former WAVES may enlist in the reserve program.

He has arranged for a short movie to be shown in the theaters in the township this week pointing out the attractive features of the new naval program.

MISSION SCHOOL ELECTION JULY 22

A special school election asking for authorization to increase the school district tax rate to $1.30 from the present 80 cents will be held Tuesday, July 22, at Mission San Jose.

The need for an increase in revenue was brought out recently at a meeting of residents of the district when the necessity of increasing teachers' salaries became apparent.

Principal E. B. Hodges stated at that time that it would be difficult to retain a teaching staff without an increase in salaries in lieu of the increases recently voted by all other school districts in the area.

Polls will be set up at the school building and will be open from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Add Variety to Canned Pears

The pear crop seldom seems to fail and may be relied upon by home canners to provide summer fruits for winter tables. To break the monotony of plain canned pears the universally used Ball Blue Book on home canning suggests some tasty variations. Orange pears may be made by using the juice and rind of one-half orange to each quart of sirup. Remove the orange rind before packing the pears into jars. To make cinnamon pears use two or three tablespoons of "Red Hots" to each quart of sirup, or use stick cinnamon and a few drops of red coloring. Ginger pears are made by using ginger tea (water in which ginger root is boiled) instead of plain water for making sirup. Use pineapple juice instead of water for the sirup to make pineapple pears. For plum pears use tart, red plum juice instead of water for making the sirup. These variations are sure to "hit the spot" with your family.

Be An "Engineer in Good Eating"--Do Home Canning!

Simple Instructions Based on Science

You may not have a degree as an engineer, Mrs. Housewife, but when you're home canning you're using scientific principles just as surely as a mining, chemical, electrical or other engineer. That is, if you follow glass jar manufacturer's instructions, for they are based upon scientific discoveries made over a period of a century and a half.

Back in Napoleon's time, a Paris confectioner, Nicolas Appert, set out to find a method of food preservation and win a 12,000-franc prize offered in 1795 by the French government. Napoleon, like Frederick the Great, believed an army travels on its stomach, and the folks at home got hungry and discontented too!

Nicolas won the prize, after 15 years' work, but his methods and equipment have been greatly improved upon. He labored under many handicaps, not knowing a temperature beyond boiling is required for processing some foods and having to design his own glass jars. Not until 1860 did Louis Pasteur establish the fact that microorganisms are responsible for food spoilage. Fourteen years later, an American, A. K. Shriver of Baltimore, invented the "retort" or "pressure" cooker.

In 1858 John Mason patented the Mason jar with neck designed for receiving a screw type cap. The Mason jar with porcelain-lined zinc cap is an old reliable. Mason would probably be astounded by the 1947 cap for sealing the Mason jar. This new style cap is a two-piece metal affair with a Dome lid which has sealing compound on the under side and is tested for seal by pressing on the center of the lid with the finger. Sealing with the Dome lid is made doubly sure by the new type metal band which bears down on the lid at three pressure points.

Also reliable in seal is the lightning type jar with rubber ring, glass lid and wire bail.

Many scientific experiments and jar improvements have perfected processes for today's home canning and it is upon them that instructions you will find in reliable home canning literature such as the Ball Blue Book are based. Follow these instructions and you become an "Engineer in Good Eating"—much to the benefit of your family's health and increased pleasure at the table provided by delicious home canned foods.

Louis Paggetti, Niles, was treated for minor injuries at O'Connor's Hospital in San Jose Sunday evening after he was struck by an automobile while walking across Almaden Road near the subway in San Jose.
